REPORT OF THE COUNCIL.

April 29, 1864.

In accordance with the provisions of the Charter, the Council have now the pleasure of submitting to the Society their Thirty-fifth Annual Report. This, in conformity with former precedents, they propose to divide into three heads, the first of which will relate to the general affairs of the Society, the second to the operations carried on at the Office in Hanover Square, and the last to the state of the Gardens and Menagerie in the Regent's Park.

I. GENERAL ESTABLISHMENT.

1. ORDINARY MEMBERS, FELLOWS, AND ANNUAL SUBSCRIBERS.

The number of Fellows, Fellows Elect, and Annual Subscribers at the present time amounts to 1754. Of these there are—

Compounders, who have paid £20			185
Ditto ditto £30			363
Paying annual contributions of £2		٠.	232
Ditto ditto £3			837
Dormant			42

Ditto remitted			14
Annual Subscribers, paying £3.			54
e Prince of Water. Shortly after			1754

The number of Fellows elected since the last Anniversary has been 170; of Annual Subscribers 15; and two Fellows have been re-admitted under the provisions of the By-Laws, making a total addition of 187 Members to the roll of the Society since the Anniversary in 1863.

This large accession of numbers is a source of great gratification to the Council, as there can be no better test of the great and increasing popularity which attends the operations of the Society as at present conducted than such a rapid increase in the list of its Members. And on examining the subjoined comparative statement of the elections and removals that have taken place during the preceding ten years, it will be observed that the year 1863, although exhibiting a remarkable advance over the preceding, can scarcely be considered exceptional in this respect, as the renewed increase in the number of elections, which commenced in 1859 (after a short period of reduction), has continued up to the present time, and bids fair to go on doing so.

Amongst the names of those who have joined the Society since the last Anniversary, it is with no small degree of satisfaction that the Council have to record that of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. Shortly after the last Anniversary, His Royal Highness, who had manifested the interest he takes in the Society's affairs by repeated visits to the Gardens, intimated to the Council his desire to become connected with the Society. Upon this being understood, the Council, in conformity with former precedents established in the case of the Royal Family, forthwith admitted His Royal Highness to be a Fellow of the Society, and placed his name upon the books. Since that time, His Royal Highness has given further testimony of his good will towards the Society by consenting to his name being placed on the roll of Members as Vice-Patron of the Society, next to that of Her Majesty the Queen, the Patroness of the Society.

It should, however, be mentioned that, in spite of this large accession of new Members, some apparent decrease in the total number of Fellows of the Society will probably appear at the end of the present year, in consequence of the recent removal of ninety-five names from the "Dormant List." The "Dormant List" contains the names of those Fellows who, residing abroad during the whole year, are not, according to the By-Laws, liable to pay their annual subscription. Upon a recent examination of this list, it was found that a large number of the Fellows whose names were upon it had been absent from the country for many years, without their addresses being known. It appeared to the Council that this was objectionable, as keeping on the books of the Society the names of a large number of individuals many of whom have had no intercourse with the Society for a considerable period, and concerning whose existence there was no means of obtaining information. The Council, therefore, adopted the following regulations relative to the Dormant List of Fellows:—

- I. That no Fellow's name should be kept on the List of Dormant Members for a longer period than three years, unless the address of his foreign residence is known.
- II. That any Fellow whose name shall have been removed from the Dormant List, in accordance with the above resolution, on returning to this country and making due explanation, should be restored to the List of Fellows upon payment of his subscription for the current year.

Under these regulations, and in execution of the authority given them by the By-Laws, the Council, on the 17th of February last, removed from the List of Fellows ninety-five names of Members who had been "dormant" for eight years and upwards without their addresses being known;

and an apparent (though not real) decrease in the total strength of the Society has been thus occasioned.

The number of Deaths since the last Anniversary has been 61; the number of Resignations has been 13; and 8 Members have been removed from the roll under the By-Laws for non-payment of their debts due to the Society.

The present number of candidates for admission is 30, making a total of 96 additions to the list of Fellows since the 1st of January of the present year.

2. Foreign and Corresponding Members.

One Foreign Member only has been elected by the Society since the last Anniversary, namely, Dr. Herman Burmeister, late of Halle, now Director of the Museum of Buenos Ayres, the addition of whose name makes the number of 25 Foreign Members authorized by the By-Laws complete.

Thirteen Corresponding Members have been elected during the same period, namely :-

Joshua Alder, Esq., Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

William Henry Ashmall, Esq., Cameroons River, West Africa.

Capt. R. H. Beddome, Official Conservator of Forests, Madras.

Edward Drinker Cope, Esq., Philadelphia.

William Dunn, Esq., Civil Engineer, Akyab. Henry Giglioli, Esq., Villa Chiti, Pisa, Italy.

Ronald Gunn, Esq., Launceston, Tasmania. Albany Hancock, Esq., Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

The Baboo Rajendra Mullick, Calcutta.

Colonel George Ramsay, C.B., Resident at the Court of Nepal.

Odo William Leopold Russell, Esq., of H.M. Diplomatic Service.

M. Auguste Sallé, 13 Rue Guy de la Brosse, Paris. Lieut.-Col. Patrick Stewart, Royal Engineers.

3. INCOME.

After the very large sum received by the Society during the Exhibition year of 1862, it could hardly have been expected that the Income of the year 1863 would have exceeded the average. Experience in such cases has shown that such periods of unusual increase are ordinarily followed by corresponding intervals of reduction. It is with no small pleasure, therefore, that the Council are able to report that in the present instance nothing of the sort is perceptible. The Income of this Society in the year 1863 reached a total of £20,284 12s. 11d., being the largest sum ever received by the Society in any one year, except the two Exhibition years, as the following Table will show:—

Income of the Zoological Society of London.

^{*} Two Exhibition years.

The average Income of the three years preceding 1862 was rather more than £16,000, so that the year 1863—so far from exhibiting any decrease, as might have been reasonably expected—gives a solid increase of upwards of £4000 when compared with the average income of the three ordinary years which preceded it.

Of the items which have contributed to make up this increase, the most noticeable are that of Annual Subscriptions, which show an increase of £335 when compared with 1862; that of Compositions in lieu of Annual Subscriptions, which produced £1200; and that of Admissions to the Gardens, under which the amount of £11,781 will be found credited to the Society. If the two Exhibition years are put aside, it will be observed that no such large sum has been received from the public for entrance into the Society's Gardens since their first opening in May 1828.

[†] First Exhibition of the Giraffes.

The two great National Holidays of Easter Monday and Whit Monday 1863 produced a very large number of visitors to the Society's Gardens. On the latter day in particular the Gardens were more crowded with visitors than has ever been previously the case in any one day since their opening to the public—the enormous number of 30,374 persons having passed into them between 9 o'clock A.M. and sunset, and the receipts therefrom having reached the large amount of £757 14s. 6d.

The cash-surplus carried forward to the Society's credit from the year 1862 was £2120 0s. 3d. This sum added to the amount of Income received during the year, together with the sum of £891 8s. 6d., being the proceeds of the sale of £1000 Reduced 3 per Cents, part of the reserve-fund, gave the total sum of £23,296 1s. 8d. available for the expenditure of the year 1863.

4. Expenditure.

This sum of £23,296 1s. 8d. was disposed of in the following way. The ordinary expenditure of the Society amounted to £16,024 16s.; the sum of £5227 15s. 2d. was devoted to special objects which are usually classed under the title of Extraordinary Expenditure, and a balance of £2043 10s. 6d. was thus left to the credit of the Society at their bankers at the end of the year 1863.

But these sums include the arrears of the year 1862, and exclude the liabilities of the Society left unpaid on the 31st of December, 1863. When the sum of £1626 12s. 5d., being the first of these amounts, is deducted, and that of £5796 17s. 7d. (being the amount of liabilities at the close of the year) is added, it will be found that the Society's total expenditure for the year 1863 was £25,422 16s. 4d. Of this the sum of £16,139 1s. was required to meet the ordinary expenses of the year, and the remaining sum of £9283 15s. 4d. belongs strictly to extraordinary expenditure, the nature of which will be shown hereafter.

With regard to the ordinary expenditure of the Society the Council have but few special remarks to offer. As the number of larger animals in the Gardens increases, and the buildings devoted to their exhibition are enlarged from time to time, so, it is obvious, must the expenditure consequent upon this increase of the Society's operations be augmented. But with an income of upwards of £20,000 entirely arising from ordinary sources, and every prospect of its maintenance at that figure, the Council cannot think that the expenditure of £16,000 on the ordinary proceedings of the Society will be regarded as excessive.

It remains therefore to speak of the sum of £9283 15s. 4d., which was incurred under the head of extraordinary expenditure in the year 1863. This may be divided into four heads, as shown in the following account.—

1. New Buildings and Works.

It will be thus seen that by far the greater portion of this large sum was devoted to new buildings in the Society's Gardens, and works connected with them, concerning which full details will be given below.

1. Publications.

The Proceedings of the Scientific Meetings of the Society, both with and without Illustrations, have been regularly issued since the last Anniversary. The three parts for 1863 united together form a volume of 580 pages, illustrated by forty-two Plates, chiefly the production of Messrs. Wolf, Ford, and other eminent zoological artists.

The first part of the Proceedings of the Scientific Meetings of the Society for the present year, containing the communications made to the meetings held during the months of January, February, and March, is in the press and will be published very shortly.

Of the "Transactions" one part has been issued since the last Anniversary, namely, part iii. of the fifth volume, containing the following papers:-

Mr. W. H. Flower, "On the Brain of the Javan Loris

(Stenops javanicus)."

Messrs. Alder and Hancock, "Notice of a Collection of Nudibranchiate Mollusca, made in India by Walter Elliot, Esq., with descriptions of several new genera and species." Mr. W. K. Parker, "On the Osteology of Gallinaceous Birds and Tinamous."

The value and interest of these papers, and the beauty of the Plates by Messrs. Wolf, Erxleben, and Williams which illustrate them, will, it is believed, fully keep up the reputation already acquired by the Society's "Transactions."

In their last year's Report, the Council called particular attention to the new plan of allowing the Fellows and Corresponding Members of the Society to receive copies of all the Scientific Publications of the Society, upon payment of a subscription of £1 1s. per annum, provided such subscription be paid before the Anniversary Meeting of the year. They have now to announce that this arrangement has so far succeeded that 242 Fellows have registered themselves as Subscribers to the publications under this regulation. The Council, however, cannot but believe that as the number and value of the Society's Scientific Publications becomes known—the ordinary selling price of the "Proceedings" and "Transactions" issued in each year being seldom less than from £4 to £5—more of their Members will be anxious to avail themselves of the privilege thus offered to them.

Besides the ordinary Scientific Publications of the Society during the past year, a second edition of the "Classified List of Vertebrated Animals exhibited in the Society's Collection" has been prepared under the Secretary's superintendence, and is now on sale at the price of One Shilling and Sixpence, reduced in the case of Members of the Society to One Shilling.

A complete list of all the Mammals and Birds which have been exhibited alive in the Society's Gardens since their institution in 1825 has likewise been prepared by Mr. Louis Fraser, under the Secretary's superintendence, and is now in the printer's hands.

The Index to the Society's "Proceedings" from 1848 to 1860, alluded to in the last Report, was received from the printer and issued to the public shortly after the last Anniversary.

2. LIBRARY.

The sum of £287 1s. 2d. was expended on the maintenance and increase of the Society's Library during the year 1863. Of this the greater part (£194 3s. 4d.) was devoted to purchasing standard works on Zoology, which are requisite for ordinary use as books of reference. A Supplement to the Library Catalogue, printed some years since, has likewise been prepared, and is now in the printer's hands.

Besides the purchased additions, the Society's Library has received since the last Anniversary Transactions and Proceedings from the following Institutions:-

III. GARDENS, REGENT'S PARK.

1. BUILDINGS AND WORKS.

The large surplus of Income accruing to the Society from the results of the year 1862 (whereby the funded property of the Society was increased ultimately to the sum of £15,000 Stock) rendered the Council anxious to carry out the plans commenced so successfully in the case of the New Antelope House, of adding to the large permanent buildings in the Society's Gardens. In the spring of the past year, accordingly, as already noticed in their Report to the last Anniversary Meeting, the Council entered into a contract with Messrs. Lucas for the building of three new Entrancelodges, a new Aviary, and a new Monkey House, at a total cost of £6500, according to plans prepared for them by Anthony Salvin, Esq., Jun. These buildings, although delayed far beyond the time originally contemplated by the Council for their completion, are now finished and in working order, with the exception of the Monkey House, the interior fittings of which are not yet completed; and the Council cannot but believe that they will all of them prove satisfactory to the Fellows of the Society, and, as regards both beauty and utility, form material additions to the Garden Establishment. Concerning each of them a few words of explanation may be requisite.

1. The three new Lodges replace the wooden boxes until recently tenanted by the money-takers at the entrance to the Society's Gardens. These buildings, although erected originally to serve merely temporarily for the purpose to which they were devoted, had been suffered to remain for many years without alterations, or anything more than necessary repairs. The new Lodges have been fitted up with every requisite necessary for the purposes for which they are intended. They are also ornamental adjuncts to the Society's premises, and have the further advantage of giving shelter from the weather to persons entering the Gardens, whilst they pay the entrance-fees or write their names in the visitors' books.

- 2. The New or Eastern Aviary, as it is proposed to call it, occupies nearly the same ground as the former Aviary which was removed to make room for it. It is, however, larger in dimensions, and has been constructed on very different principles, being, as the Council believe, in several respects superior to any other building for the care and exhibition of birds that has yet been erected in this country. The elevation of the floor above the ground brings the objects displayed within it more nearly to the level of the eye of the spectator, and is also of advantage to the inmates themselves, in securing better drainage and affording more air and light. The passage through the interior of the building must be also regarded as an improvement, as enabling the birds to be seen in winter and in bad weather, when under ordinary circumstances they are inaccessible to visitors.
- 3. The New Monkey House, which has been erected on one of the best sites in the Society's premises, will replace what is at present perhaps the most defective portion of the Society's Garden-establishment. The closed window-less building which has been devoted to the exhibition of Quadrumana ever since the first establishment of the Gardens has been long condemned as objectionable in many respects, and is, moreover, fissured in a dangerous way from having been built on imperfect foundations. The Council therefore gladly embraced the opportunity offered by the surplus of Income in 1862 to carry out a plan for replacing it by a building constructed upon entirely different principles. The chief object aimed at in the New Monkey House has been to give the animals as much light and sun as possible; and though it may be objected that a building of glass and iron is likely to prove hot in summer and cold in winter, it is believed that both these inherent defects will be remedied in the present instance—the first by the introduction of Creepers and plants, and the great care taken to ensure ventilation, and the second by the use of the same hot-water warming apparatus that has been found so efficient in others of the Society's buildings. It is also hoped that the New Monkey House will be free from the bad odours, which no amount of care has succeeded in removing in the case of the former building.

The contract-price with Messrs. Lucas for the erection of the three Lodges, the New Aviary, and the New Monkey House was £6500. Their total cost, including warming-apparatus, internal fittings, and the necessary rearrangement of the ground outside, will probably exceed £7000, which sum will be found charged to their account under the head of extraordinary expenditure in 1863.

Another important work executed during the past year, and charged to its expenditure, is the row of Cattle-sheds in the paddock near the South entrance to the Gardens. A building of this sort, wherein the Society's collection of Bovine animals might be brought together and exhibited in a connected series, had long been a desideratum. The strong oak fencing requisite in such a case, in order to render the yards fit for the reception of Bisons, Buffaloes, and other animals of this class, rendered the building rather expensive, considering its character; but the Council have every reason to believe that it is thoroughly well adapted for the purpose intended, and that under the circumstances the sum expended upon it (£711 11s. 8d.) was not excessive.

The thorough repair of the Elephant-pond and inclosure was also effected during the past summer—the size of the basin having been somewhat reduced, so as to allow of a more frequent change of water, the back rebuilt, and the bottom repaved—at a total cost of £204 1s. 8d.

Various minor additions to the buildings in the Gardens, the particulars of which are given in the table of extraordinary expenditure, cost altogether the sum of £156.

The sum of £246 10s. 2d. was devoted to the thorough repair of the walks, the large number of visitors to the Gardens in 1862 having rendered an additional outlay (beyond the sum usually devoted to that purpose) very desirable.

The number and importance of the new buildings in process of erection in the Gardens rendered it desirable that the services of an efficient clerk of the works should be secured while they were in progress; and the salary paid to him, at the rate of £3 3s. per week, will also be found charged to extraordinary expenditure.

These items, it will be found, make up the total sum of £8710 11s. 7d., being the amount charged to extraordinary expenditure under the head of Works and Buildings in 1863.

2. MENAGERIE.

The general state of the Society's extensive Menagerie has continued to remain highly satisfactory since the last Anniversary. The census taken on the 1st of January last showed a slight but unimportant decrease in the total number of vertebrated animals in the Gardens during the year; the number on the 1st of January, 1863, having been 1748, and that on the 1st of January, 1864, 1730. Of the latter 567 were Quadrupeds, 1063 Birds, and 100 Reptiles, forming in the whole by far the largest and most complete series of living animals in Europe.

Although it becomes more difficult every year to find additions in the shape of animals that are quite new to such a collection, the subjoined list of 12 Mammals, 35 Birds, 22 Reptiles, and 8 Fishes, that were exhibited alive for the first time in the year 1863, will show that the Council's efforts in this direction have also met with some success. They have, however, on the present occasion, no such strange forms as the Aye-aye or the Kagu to record as added to the series for the first time.

LIST OF SPECIES EXHIBITED FOR THE FIRST TIME IN THE YEAR 1863.

MAMMALS.

- 1. Howling Monkey (Mycetes ursinus, Humb.).

- 7. Small-spotted Dog-fish (Scyllium canicula, Linn.).
- 8. Pope Fish (Acerina vulgaris).

In the foregoing list the recent additions made to the Society's series of Pheasants are perhaps those which have excited the most general interest, and best offer occasion for a few remarks. In the month of April, last year, the Secretary of the Society read at one of the scientific meetings a paper (since published in the 'Proceedings') on the family Phasianidæ, in which fifty-six species of this splendid group of birds were enumerated as known to science. Of these, no less than twenty-nine have been already, at different times, obtained living for the Society's collections, and exhibited in their Aviaries. The Society's present series of this family embrace the following species:—

- 1. The Impeyan Pheasant (Lophophorus impeyanus).
- 2. The Common Pheasant (Phasianus colchicus).
- 3. The Japanese Pheasant (Phasianus versicolor).
- 4. Sæmmering's Pheasant (Phasianus sæmmeringii).
- 5. The Wallich's Pheasant or Cheer (Phasianus wal-lichii).
- 6. The Golden Pheasant (Thaumalea picta).
- 7. The Rufous-tailed Pheasant (Euplocamus erythroph-thalmus).
- 8. The Silver Pheasant (Euplocamus nycthemerus).
- 9. Horsfield's Kaleege (Euplocamus horsfieldi).
- 10. The Black-backed Kaleege (Euplocamus melanotus).
- 11. The White-crested Kaleege (Euplocamus albocristatus).
- 12. Sonnerat's Jungle-fowl (Gallus sonneratii).
- 13. The Tragopan (Ceriornis satyra).
- 14. The Common Pea-fowl (Pavo cristatus).
- 15. The Black-winged Pea-fowl (Pavo nigripennis).
- 16. The Indian Polyplectron (Polyplectron chinquis).
- 17. The Wild Turkey (Meleagris gallopavo).
- 18. The Ocellated Turkey (Meleagris ocellata).

Of these, Sæmmering's Pheasant, the Rufous-tailed Pheasant, and the Black-headed Tragopan are all recent introductions, and, as there are pairs of each of them in the collection, may probably become permanent additions to the list of breeding Phasianidæ.

In order to bring more effectually to the knowledge of their numerous correspondents and friends in the East and elsewhere the present state of the Society's collection of these birds and the species that were still desiderata to the list, the Council have sent out to India and China copies of the Secretary's paper on the Pheasants above mentioned, illustrated by coloured figures of such of the species as would appear to be the most desirable additions to the collection. The list is also accompanied with instructions as to the best method of keeping these birds in confinement, and of packing them for conveyance to England. With regard to the latter point, the many difficulties experienced by the Society's correspondents in procuring the safe conveyance of Pheasants and other game-birds to this country will, it is hoped, be greatly diminished by recent arrangements made by the Council, in conjunction with Mr. John J. Stone, for the transmission of such birds by the overland route. Under these arrangements, birds of this nature, destined for the Society, may be forwarded from the different ports in India and China through Mr. John J. Stone's correspondents, viz.:—

But as it is very desirable that the transit of the specimens to England should be as rapid as possible, it has been intimated to those persons who are anxious to assist in the desirable object of introducing these new and splendid birds into this country, that they should in all cases, before sending off the birds, kindly communicate with Mr. Stone's agents at the nearest port, to ascertain the most convenient time for despatching them.

Another event which has taken place since the last Anniversary, and which the Council trust may result in the further acquisition of valuable additions to the Society's Menagerie, is the mission of the Society's head keeper,

Mr. J. Thompson, to India.

Several of the Society's Corresponding Members in India—amongst whom may be particularly mentioned Mr. A. Grote and the Babu Rajendra Mullick of Calcutta, and Mr. W. Dunn of Akyab—having announced that they had collections waiting for transmission to the Society, amongst which were a pair of young Rhinoceroses, some Panolia Deer, examples of the Galeopithecus volans, and other valuable animals, the Council determined on sending out to Calcutta, to receive and bring back those proffered donations, Mr. Thompson, who had previously made the same journey with such signal success on the occasion of the introduction of the Himalayan Pheasants in 1858. They also gladly embraced the opportunity of sending out to the Babu Rajendra Mullick a selection of living animals likely to be acceptable to that gentleman, as some return for the many valuable donations that he has from time to time made to the Society's Menagerie. The Society will be pleased to hear that Mr. Thompson, who left England in the 'Hydaspes' on the 28th of November last, has reached Calcutta with only the loss of one individual of the collection under his charge.

The following list contains the names of the Mammals, Birds, and Reptiles which have bred in the Society's Gardens during the year 1863.

Conclusion.

It now only remains for the Council to ask for the Society's thanks for the many liberal donations recorded in the previous lists. They have also to acknowledge their obligations to those Fellows who have aided them in conducting the business of the Society by acting on the various Committees of Finance, Audit, and Publication, during the past twelve months.

The Council, however, cannot finally conclude their Report without offering their congratulations to the Society upon the present prosperous state of its affairs. The yearly increase in the popularity of the Society's Gardens as a place of public resort, the large additions to the numbers of the Fellows, and the very favourable state of the Income enable them to do this with the utmost confidence as regards the year 1863; and so far as the present year has advanced, there seems every probability that in all these respects the account of the Society's affairs at the next succeeding Anniversary will prove to be no less satisfactory.

Signed for the Council,

P. L. SCLATER,

Secretary.

The Auditors congratulate the Society on the continued improvement of its position and prospects. The Receipts from December 1862 to December 1863 have exceeded those during every other twelvementh of the Society's existence, except the years of the General Exhibitions, 1851 and 1862, while an increase under all but three heads of revenue appears, even when compared with those two most favoured periods.

The Annual Subscriptions exceed in amount those received in any one of the last seventeen years; more Compositions have been made than in any one of the last thirty-four years, and the Garden Sales surpass those of any year of the last ten, while the Admission Fees are larger than they have been in any one year during the last quarter of a century. The number of Fellows is at present considerably greater than it has been during the last fifteen years, no less than 164 persons (far surpassing the number that have joined the Society any year during the last twenty-five years) having been elected Members of the Society in 1863.

In conclusion, your Auditors assure the Society of their entire concurrence in the opinion of their predecessors, as to the admirably clear and accurate manner in which the accounts have been arranged and laid before them by the Accountant Mr. Leigh, whose conduct cannot be too highly praised, and whose knowledge and management of the subject appears perfect.
